

TWO ASSESSMENT ROLLS APPROVED

Final Action Taken by Council on Sewer in Block "K" and on Sidewalk Contracts.

TO AWARD GARBAGE CONTRACT

Voted that City will Pay Assessment for Improvement of Street Along the Library.

Two final assessment rolls covering the cost of improvements ordered by the former council were approved and placed in the hands of the city treasurer for collection by the city council at the regular meeting Thursday night. One of the assessment rolls was for the sewer in Block "K" and the resolution provided that the sum of $440, the contract price, be paid to E. H. Kuhlman, the contractor. The second assessment roll approved was for the improvement of the south side of High street between East and Vine streets and the west side of Vine street between Laurel street and corporation line with concrete. The contract price was $195.67 and the work was done by William H. Kaufman. Both improvements have been completed for several weeks but the work was not accepted by the former council.

All the members were present at the meeting Thursday night and Mayor Ross presided. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Clerk Albert Johnson and approved on motion of Ley.

Ahlbrand, chairman of the finance committee, reported that a large portion of the $2,000 loan had been used and that more money would have to be borrowed soon. This loan was negotiated as a part of the $12,000 loan authorized at a meeting two weeks ago. Ahlbrand said that some outstanding bills had been paid and that the salaries would be due the first of the month. $4,000 more will probably be borrowed by the city treasurer in a few weeks.

Roekstroh, chairman of the board of public works, stated that the street commissioner was carrying out the program of work and had succeeded in cleaning up several streets and alleys.

Andrews stated that he had intended to introduce a resolution to approve Maplewood addition but had found that the width of the streets had not been designated in the plat and would have the same corrected. This addition is situated west of Central avenue.

Ahlbrand stated that the garbage and ash contracts would expire March 1 and introduced a resolution authorizing the city clerk to advertise for bids. The contracts for the removal of ashes and garbage will be received separately at 7:30 a'clock, February 19th. Each bidder will be required to accompany his bid with a certified check of $20 and the successful bidder will be required to give bond of $500 for the faithful performance of the contract. The contract will be effective from March 1, 1914, to March 1, 1915.

CROTHERSVILLE EXPECTING GREATER "BOOM" THIS SUMMER

New Residences Have Been Built and Business Generally is Flourishing.

Crothersville, the thriving little business center to the south, is booming. The town is fairly bubbling over with activity and the merchants there expect that greater progress will be made during the next twelve months than during any corresponding length of time in the history of the town. The boom there is the result of harmonious work and boosting upon the part of the citizens. Every body who lives at Crothersville is praising the town and is telling all their friends and acquaintances about the splendid conditions there.

The action of the oil company recently organized to develop the territory in that vicinity has given impetus to the boosting spirit. The merchants there have made an effort to secure several new factories and the plants located there are running full time and are employing quite a number of people at good salaries. Several new business houses and dwellings have been erected there during the last few months and others are to be built this spring. It is reported that thirteen merchants asked to rent one new business house recently constructed.

The new ditch which is being constructed in that vicinity is resulting in an increase in farm values in the bottom lands. It is opening up some excellent land which heretofore has been flooded several times a year and could not be used for farming purposes with safety. It is reported that several farmers paid for their farms this year with their pumpkin crops which were sold to the Crothersville canning factory.

The Seymour Wood Working Company has purchased three lots on Vine street just east of their factory. They will use them for lumber yards. Recently they put in a mill and will saw their own lumber from the logs.

FIRST SEMESTER COMPLETED TODAY

All Departments of City Schools Have Made Marked Advancement Since September.

EXAMINATIONS WERE HELD

Reports Will be Distributed The First of Next Week—Promotions to The High School.

The first semester of the public schools closed this afternoon and marks a period of unusual success and advancement. Since last September the schools have made rapid strides forward under the direction of Superintendent Mott who has inaugurated a number of improvements which have resulted in increased efficiency and a higher standard of work. All departments are working in complete harmony for the welfare of the school system and even greater advancement is predicted before the close of the year. Superintendent Mott keeps in close personal touch with each class throughout the city and has made the system one of perfect unity in which all concerned are giving their best efforts to attain the standard of work that is recommended.

Throughout the city the semester examinations have been held during the week and the reports will be ready for distribution the first of next week. The work generally has been very satisfactory and the teachers report that they have been able to complete the outline of study submitted at the beginning of the term.

The high school classes were dismissed Thursday afternoon until Monday morning. When the reports are returned it will be found that the grades are given under the new system of marking in which letters are used in place of figures. "A" will signify that the student has completed the work with honor and "B" will denote that the work has been finished. "C" signifies that the pupil has received a passing grade while a marking of "D" means that the pupil has failed to make a passing grade. Heretofore the grades were given in figures.

When the new semester opens Monday about thirty pupils will be promoted from the junior high school to the senior high school and a number will be advanced from the Seventh grade to the Eighth grade. These promotions at this time of the year are made possible by the new system inaugurated by Superintendent Mott who provided for senior and junior departments of the high school.

Several new courses will be started next semester. A class in commercial arithmetic will be organized and solid geometry will also be given. The courses for the new term has already been outlined and the teachers informed of the work that is expected of them in their respective departments.

The High School Annual will be published again this year. The book will be similar to the one issued last year but will be larger. Pupils contribute for the pages and the editors will begin work shortly.

PLANS WORK FOR CITY PRISONERS

Council Names Committee to Confer With Commissioners About Municipal Rock Pile.

PLEASANT NEWS FOR TRAMPS

Fines May Also be Worked Out on Streets at The Rate of One Dollar Per Day.

The first step towards the establishment of a rock pile in this city was taken by the city council Thursday night when the question was presented by Ahlbrand, and a committee was appointed to meet with the county commissioners relative to an agreement whereby the county would pay at least part of the cost for keeping prisoners here. Upon motion of Andrews, Mayor Ross and City Attorney Kasting were appointed on the committee to confer with the commissioners as soon as possible.

There has been a growing sentiment for several years in favor of a work house or a rock pile, but definite action has been delayed from time to time with the result that the old system is still in vogue. Ahlbrand stated that he believed that a rock pile would be a good thing for the city if it could be legally established and asked the city attorney regarding the legal phases of the question.

Attorney Kasting said that he had examined the law and could find no reason why city prisoners could not be worked on a rock pile. He explained that the rock pile came under the head of the work house and that the state law provided that cities of this class could establish work houses and could also enter into an agreement with the county commissioners whereby the county could pay to the city the amount that is appropriated for the care of such prisoners. He said that in his opinion no elaborate building would be needed and that a system of work could be provided whereby the plan would be more than self sustaining.

Steinwedel, chairman of the Board of Safety, recalled that an appropriation of $400 was made annually for the transfer of prisoners to Brownstown, and that if they were worked here this amount would be saved. It was also mentioned that the county sheriff is allowed twenty-five cents each time a prisoner's name is recorded on the jail record and a like sum each time a prisoner is released. These are known as the "in" and "out" fees, but they would not be allowed if the city prisoners remained here.

Mayor Ross told the council that he and Councilman Roekstroh had had a conference with J. C. Hagerty, Superintendent of the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad about the advantage of a rock pile and that Mr. Hagerty had stated that other cities had found such a plan valuable in keeping tramps away. As Seymour is a junction for two principal railroad lines, a larger number of hoboes visit the city than are found in any other city of its size in southern Indiana. The councilmen seemed to be of the

REV. FRANCIS E. CLARK D. D. APPROVES THE MOVEMENT

Founder of Christian Endeavor Urges The Value of Observing Go-to-Church Sunday on Feb. 1.

Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., the founder of the great Christian Endeavor Society speaks heartily in favor of the Go-to-church Sunday movement. He says:

"In these three words, 'Go to church,' is crystalized one of the fundamental principles of Christian Endeavor. This is an abrupt, commanding, imperative sentence when used alone. When made into a compound adjective qualifying 'Sunday,' it designates a new movement which bids fair to become not only nationwide but world-wide.

"It is such a suggestion, which has originated with the Chicago Christian Endeavor union as part of the 'Help-Our-Church Campaign,' which The Christian Endeavor World has already taken up with enthusiasm, and which the United Society of Christian Endeavor has adopted and printed in leaflet form for wide distribution.

"Now the Chicago union has added to its general suggestion of a Go-to-Church Sunday, the date, February 1, as a day for beginning the effort.

"The plan has been enthusiastically indorsed by Catholics, Jews, and every Protestant denomination.

"Leading commercial bodies and public-service corporations are co-operating so that every man, woman, and child, so far as possible may have an opportunity to go to church on that Sunday.

"Extensive publicity plans include newspaper advertising, electric signs, bill-boards, streamers and posters on automobiles and wagons, house-to-house visitation, stickers on letters, telephone calls, and every other legitimate form of advertising.

"I need only add my enthusiastic approval of the idea, and my profound conviction that great good may come of it.

"Some cities had already planned for another date for Go-to-Church Sunday; Boston, for instance, has designated February 8. Another year I hope that some uniform date may be adopted throughout the country, and what better date than February 1, could be suggested?

"This will do much to show the solidarity of Christianity, to unite the Christian world in still another common observance.

"It will concentrate the attention of the worldly and indifferent upon the church for one day at least. It will remind those who never think seriously of the church from one year's end to the other that there is such an institution. Even those who do not accept the invitation will be influenced by it, and it will afford an unusual opportunity to remind them of the church and its worth to humanity."

NEW COMMISSION PROPOSED IN BILL

Measure Introduced in Congress to Organize Interstate Trade Commission.

POWER OVER CORPORATIONS

Important Function is to Assist in Preventing Violations of Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

Washington, January 23—Following immediately President Wilson's address to the congress, in which legislation to supplement and clear up the Sherman anti-trust act was recommended, Representative Clayton, chairman of the judiciary committee, has introduced in the house a bill to create an interstate trade commission. Three other measures in accord with the President's policy are ready for introduction.

The commission proposed by the Clayton bill, which would absorb the bureau of corporations and which would have as its first chairman the commissioner of corporations—in this case, Joseph E. Davies, of Wisconsin—would consist of five members, each at a salary of $10,000, and would have powers of inquiry over all corporations, except common carriers, which are regulated by the interstate commerce commission. It also would act as an advisory board to the attorney-general and the courts, but its most important function is designed to assist business and the government in preventing violations of the Sherman act; in aiding the attorney-general to terminate alleged unlawful conditions by agreements.

In clothing the commission with authority to be of service in forestalling conditions that might call for prosecution, the bill prescribes that it shall, on the request of the attorney-general, or any corporation that may be affected, or on its own initiative, investigate for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is anything in the conduct of a corporation or in its relations to other corporations or individuals which violates the Sherman act. In case any such violation is found to exist, the bill provides that the commission shall report in full to the attorney-general "in order that said corporation may thereafter comply with the terms of said act," and to aid the attorney-general in terminating by agreement with the corporation affected or by suit, the unlawful conduct or condition.

In detail the bill sets forth that the commission shall require all corporations engaged in commerce among the states or with foreign nations, except common carriers, whether required by the general rules and regulations for regular information or information specially asked, from time to time, to furnish to the commission information, statements and records of their organization, business, financial condition, conduct, management and relation to other companies "at such time, to such degree and extent, and in such form as may be prescribed by the commission."

CARRIED HER BODILY INTO HER OLD HOME

Delilah Bradley Loath to Turn From Folly.

Philadelphia, Jan. 22.—Following a trip by automobile from the Windsor hotel, in which she was staying in this city, with her father, Miss Delilah Bradley, the eighteen-year-old girl who eloped to Mobile with Joel M. Foster her forty-five-year-old millionaire admirer, was returned to her home in Pemberton, N. J., late yesterday afternoon. When the entrance to her home was reached the girl, who had rebelled against the return through out the trip, screamed and refused to enter. Her father picked her up in his arms and with the assistance of two private detectives, carried her bodily up the steps of the house. As she was borne along by the three men Miss Bradley shouted hysterically: "I love Foster as much as ever and I know he will get a divorce. Then I will marry him and he will take me away from here. Put that in the papers. I love him more than ever, and I know that he will marry me as soon as he is divorced."

Foster is under bond at Mobile to answer in federal court a charge of violating the Mann act against "white slavery."

ACCUSATION AGAINST YOUNG TRAIN BANDIT

Another Killing Charged to Ralph Fariss.

San Francisco, Jan. 22.—The train bandit, Ralph Fariss, under sentence of death for the murder of H. E. Montague, traveling passenger agent for the Southern Pacific railroad, when he robbed the Sunset Limited near Los Angeles the night of Dec. 1, was identified here by Mrs. George Duval as the burglar who killed Edward Driscoll, seventeen years old, on the night of Dec. 20 in San Francisco.

Driscoll's sisters heard a noise in their apartments and asked him to investigate. He was shot through the forehead as he opened the door to the dining room. The murderer fled before anyone in the house saw him, but Mrs. Duval, who was a neighbor, said she saw a man vault the back fence. She is positive Fariss was the fugitive.

Fariss arrived from Los Angeles, where he was tried and convicted. He is on the way to San Quentin penitentiary, to be hanged March 6.

MARKED REGARD FOR FILIPINOS' FEELINGS

Navy Department Not Through With Carabao Incident.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Reprimanded as a result of the Carabao incident. Rear Admiral Thomas Howard will not be made commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet, a command to which he had been designated before the Carabao dinner. Admiral Howard will instead take command of the Pacific fleet, succeeding Rear Admiral W. C. Cowles.

It is explained that the reason for depriving Admiral Howard of the command of the Asiatic fleet is not to penalize him, but in deference to the Filipinos. Secretary Daniels considered that it would be wiser not to send to the Asiatic station the man who was in charge of the arrangements for the dinner, served as its toastmaster, and who had been reprimanded for his connection with and responsible for the incidents at that dinner to which President Wilson took such strong objection.

MOYER GIVEN A CLEAN BILL

Warden of Atlanta Federal Prison Exonerated by Investigator.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The report of Dr. A. J. McKelway, special agent of the department of justice, who investigated the charges against the administration of the federal prison at Atlanta, exonerates Warden Moyer and his subordinates and concludes with the declaration that a satisfactory condition exists at the penitentiary.

The attorney general did not think it wise to give publicity to the entire report for the reason that many sections of it contained information which he thought should be withheld in the interest of the efficient administration of the prison.

Declares She Was Jilted.

Laporte, Ind., Jan. 22.—Miss Effie Williams of this city has filed suit in the Laporte circuit court against Frank Carson of Adams county, this state, asking for $10,000 for alleged breach of promise. She alleges that Carson, when living in Laporte, proposed marriage to her and she accepted him. She says he was slow about carrying out his promises and so she proposed to him, but he failed to marry her.

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson IV. January 25.
MINISTERING TO JESUS.
Luke 8:1-3; 9:57-62; 10:38-42.

Golden Text: Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even these least, ye did it unto me.—Matt. 25:40.

The title of this lesson, "Ministering to Jesus," is a fascinating one and is found in chapter viii, 2, concerning the women who ministered unto Him of their substance. Angels delighted to minister unto Him when He was here in humiliation, as they did in the wilderness after His conflict with the devil (Matt. iv, 11); also at His birth and in Gethsemane and at His resurrection and no doubt always, according to Ps. ciii, 20, 21, where we read of them as ministers of His that do His pleasure, hearkening unto the voice of His word.

What an honor unspeakable for us, who are saved sinners, to minister in any way unto Him who made us, who came from heaven to redeem us, who died for our sins, who as the risen Christ lives for us at God's right hand and will share His kingdom and glory with us. He was always showing the glad tidings of the kingdom of God (viii, 1) and giving samples of life in the kingdom by healing all manner of disease (Matt. ix, 23), for when the kingdom comes "the inhabitant shall not say, I am sick, and the people that dwell therein shall be forgiven their iniquity" (Isa. xxxiii, 24).

Forgiveness of sins is the first step toward the kingdom, as we learn from Luke xxiv, 46, 47; Acts xiii, 38, 39, and that this is the privilege of all who receive Him is plainly set forth in Eph. i, 6, 7; Col. i, 12-14; Rev. i, 5, 6. We must not think of the church as the kingdom nor Christ in us nor aught but that spoken of by our Lord when He taught us to pray, "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done, as in heaven, so on earth" (Luke xi, 2). It will begin with Israel, who shall be all righteous, and all of them shall know Him from the least of them unto the greatest of them.

Jerusalem shall be the throne of the Lord, and all the nations shall be gathered unto it to the name of the Lord, for it shall be the first city of truth on earth (Isa. lx, 21; Jer. xxxi, 34; iii, 17; Zech. viii, 3, 7, 8, 22, 23). While we wait for the kingdom and live to hasten it (not extend it, for we cannot extend that which has not yet begun) we may daily minister unto Him in all that we do. These women were true believers, and all believers are kings and priests unto God (Rev. i, 5, 6). We are reminded of a sentence concerning the priests in Israel, "That he may minister unto me in the priest's office" (Ex. xxviii, 1, 3, 4, and elsewhere, these ten words being the translation of two little words in Hebrew.

The words "unto Him" in verse 3 of this part of our lesson suggest many most helpful words for our daily life, such as "Unto Him that loved us," "Unto Him that is able," "Unto Him be glory," "Unto Him who died for us and rose again" (Rev. i, 5; Eph. iii, 20, 21; I Cor. v, 15). As to the women ministering, note Paul's reference to the women who labored with him in the gospel (Phil. iv, 3); that the gospel was first preached in Europe at a woman's prayer meeting, and the first convert seems to have been Lydia, who received the apostles into her house and took care of them (Acts xvi, 13-15). Note also the revised version of Ps. lxxviii, 11.

Whatever He may give us the privilege of doing, He only expects us to do as He gives the ability, and our aim must be that God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ (I Pet. iv, 11). However much we may be able to do, we should always say as David did, "All things come of thee, and of thine own have we given thee" (I Chron. xxix, 14).

In the second part of our lesson we have a home scene, that blessed and honored home in Bethany, and the two sisters ministering, each in a somewhat different way. Mary could not

Old Time Sores And Ulcers Healed

Old Wounds Often Bother Many Years After.

People who have been pontifical and anointing an old sore for years and years marvel at the way it heals quickly after using S. S. S.

When you come to realize that the skin and the flesh beneath are composed of a network of tiny blood vessels you solve the mystery.

There are wonderful medicinal properties in S. S. S. that follow the course of the blood streams just as naturally as the most nourishing food elements.

It is really a remarkable remedy. It contains one ingredient, the active purpose of which is to stimulate the tissues to the healthy selection of its own essential equipment. And the medicinal elements of this matchless blood purifier are just as essential to well-balanced health as the nutritious elements of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food.

Not one drop of minerals or drugs is used in its preparation. Ask for S. S. S. and just insist upon having it. And if you desire skillful advice and counsel upon any matter concerning the blood and skin, write to the medical department, The Swift Specific Co., 210 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Do not allow some zealous clerk to larrup the atmosphere in eloquence over something "just as good" as S. S. S. Beware of all substitutes.

have been idle or neglectful, else the Lord would not have commended her. I have no doubt but that she did all that was necessary, evidently all that the Lord thought necessary, and then she found time to sit at Jesus' feet and hear His word. Martha wanted more than either her sister or the Lord thought needful and was a bit put out with Mary for not thinking as she did.

Happy are those housekeepers who would rather please the Lord than their visitors and who always count upon the Lord as one of the guests. Simple fare is more acceptable to Him, who was off content with bread and fish, than the superfluities of life.

Although Martha did not serve as care free as Mary on this occasion, yet it is written, "Now, Jesus loved Martha and her sister and Lazarus" (John xi, 5). He loved them all. But why is Martha there mentioned by name and not her sister? Is it because weakest lambs have largest share of the shepherd's love?

Was it for the same reason that He gave Simon Peter a special interview alone on the resurrection day? (Luke xxiv, 34.) After the resurrection of Lazarus He was again in this loved home, and Mary anointed him before-hand for his burial. They made Him a supper, and Martha served, but there is no further mention of her being cumbered (John xii, 1-7).

Wonderful Cough Remedy.

Dr. King's New Discovery is known everywhere as the remedy which will surely stop a cough or cold. D. P. Lawson of Eidson, Tenn., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the most wonderful cough, cold and throat and lung medicine I ever sold in my store. It can't be beat. It sells without any trouble at all. It needs no guarantee." This is true, because Dr. King's New Discovery will relieve the most obstinate of coughs and colds. Lung troubles quickly helped by its use. You should keep a bottle in the house at all times for all the members of the family. 50c and $1. Recommended by H. H. THE NATURAL MONTH FOR SALES

January is known in merchandising as the natural month for "sales."

It is the month of business house-cleaning and planning for the new season. Most stores "take stock" and balance their books in January. They are naturally anxious to clean out small lots and turn their wares into cash.

So they make prices accordingly.

Those who like to profit by sales need no urging to read the newspaper advertising these days. They scan every line and they shop knowingly.

It is interesting to watch the way the stores go after business with each turn of the season. Our American merchants are setting an example of progress to all the world.

They know how to make advertising pay you and pay them.

Factional trouble in the Democratic party in the counties in southern Indiana seems to be growing in popularity. Jackson county Democrats were among the first to inaugurate the breach and Lawrence county soon followed suit. Now come Bartholomew county Democrats and fall right in line with the trouble program. The Democratic organ at Columbus refused to publish the call for one township convention, it is reported, because the meeting was set for the afternoon. However, in another township the convention was fixed at the same hour and the call was given due publicity. The Democrats as a general rule have been trying so hard to keep the Republicans and Progressives apart that the spirit of dissention has entered their own ranks.

The weather man seems to be an extremist. Following closely on the heels of the cold wave comes the warm, balmy spring weather. The weather is ideal for farmers who have outside work to do and they are making the best of it while it continues.

E. J. Hackett, of New Albany, who has been in Ashville, N. C., for his health, has about recovered, and will soon be able to return home. He is a brother of Mrs. Lawrence Byrne and Mrs. Ellsworth Johnson of this city and has often visited here.

The high school Basket ball team will play the second game with Scottsburg at that place tonight. The team is expecting to win as it took the first game on the local floor by a decisive score. The game with Franklin high school next Friday night is expected to be one of the best of the season. The contest will be played at Franklin and a number of students expect to accompany the players.

CELEBRATION ON FOURTH OF JULY WILL BE UNIQUE

"Sham" Battle Will be Important Attraction at the Seymour Battalion Jubilee.

The Seymour Battalion, composed of the military organizations of several of the lodges, are completing the preliminary plans for the Fourth of July celebration at the city park. At the meeting of the council last night the Battalion was granted the use of the park on that day.

The program for the jubilee has not been entirely completely but it is planned to have one of the biggest "sham" battles ever witnessed in southern Indiana. It is probable that some important battle in American history will be duplicated as nearly as possible. It is said that the location is well suited for such a exhibition and no money will be spared to make it a spectacular event.

Other features of interest will be arranged and an effort will be exerted to make each feature unique and novel. The day of the time worn carnival is past and the public is demanding entertainment of a different character. The officers of the Battalion will hold a meeting in a short time when the arrangements will be definitely determined.

Funeral Services.

The funeral of Mrs. Cassander Robins, who died Wednesday, was held this morning at Reddington, conducted by Rev. H. R. Booch, pastor of the St. Paul church. She was born in Butler county, Ohio, January 6, 1837 and was seventy-seven years of age. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sparks and was a member of a family of nine children all of whom preceded her to the grave with the exception of one brother, John Sparks, of Reddington. She also leaves her husband, one son, John Franklin, of Indianapolis, and one grandson, James Fislar, of Seymour. She was a member of the Ebenezer Baptist church. Her death followed an illness of six weeks.

WEATHER MAN'S PREDICTIONS MADE IN BUSINESSLIKE WAY

Nothing Mysterious in Forecasting Date When Disturbances Will Occur.

Washington, D. C., January 23.—Many people have an idea that there is something mysterious and occult about the work of the Weather Bureau in forecasting the coming of storms, frosts and floods. Not a few think that the observers must necessarily get their data by reading the planets, the stars and the moon. As a matter of fact the forecaster of the Bureau foretells the coming of disturbances in a businesslike way, very similar to that in which a man who has ordered a shipment of goods would estimate the date of its arrival.

Suppose a business man had ordered a carload of pineapples from the Hawaiian Islands. He would know the average time it would take the steamer to make the trip to the Pacific port, the average time for unloading and loading into refrigerator cars, and the average number of days to be allowed these cars for their trip across the continent to New York. His estimate, however, would be subject to error because the steamship might be delayed by fog, or the cars might meet with an accident.

Storms, like pineapples, as a rule do not originate in the United States. They come to us, some from the Philippines, Japan, Siberia, Alaska, Canada or the Gulf of Mexico. The Weather Bureau gets cable, telegraphic or wireless notice of a foreign storm. Station after station, or vessel after vessel reports the storm's arrival in its neighborhood, so that the general direction and rate of progress can be determined very early. In fact, the arrival of some storms can be foretold ten days in advance.

The forecasters watch for the region of low barometer which is the storm center around which the winds blow. This whirl or eddy moves bodily forward with the general eastward drift of about 650 miles a day in our latitudes. As the lines of equal pressure (isobars) around the low center crowd closer together, the winds attending the storm increase in force. The forecaster determines the direction of movement of the storm and its velocity.

When weather disturbances are reported, the forecasters know from experience about how long it takes them to reach our Pacific Coast, and then how long after they will reach the Atlantic Coast. For example, if a storm coming from Siberia drifts eastward around the North Pole and reappears in Alaska, it should appear in Washington and Oregon in about two days; should get to the Great Lakes in six days and to the Atlantic Coast in seven or eight days.

Unexpected conditions may delay storms or divert them from the straight track just as a refrigerator car may be thrown off its schedule or be shipped by accident on a wrong road. Some of these storms deplete themselves by running into regions of high barometer which are of greater magnitude and extent than the storm itself. Some of them, however, travel completely around the world. To keep tab on cold waves that come into the United States from Canada and Alaska, the Weather Bureau studies the Canadian Weather reports. England sends reports from Iceland, the British Islands and Continental Europe, and daily reports come from St. Petersburg on the conditions in Russia and Siberia.

The same businesslike system used in tracing the track of a storm is applied in determining the arrival of frosts.

Flood forecasts are made in much the same way. Information as to the amount of rainfall at the head waters of streams that cause floods are covered by telegraphic reports sent by local observers. As this rain reaches the main channel, the height of the water in the channel is determined by successive gaging stations. Past records establish how much a height, say of 20 feet at Dubuque, Iowa, will produce at Davenport, another station 80 miles down the Mississippi. This plan is followed all the way down the river, and at each point full allowance is made for the effects of water from tributaries, and from additional and local rainfall. As a result of these observations in the recent flood, the people of Cairo had warning a week or ten days in advance. The Pittsburg district can be given only 12 to 24 hours' notice, because a flood is upon them within 24 hours after a heavy rain storm.

Congress Clearing Decks for Anti-Trust Legislation.

SEVERAL BILLS ARE IN HAND

It Already Is Apparent That Congress Will Act Expeditiously in the Administration's Anti-Trust Program in Accordance With the Wishes of President Wilson, Who Wants an Early Adjournment.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The measures looking to supplemental statutes regulating operations of corporations as outlined in the recent address delivered to congress by President Wilson, will be embraced in a series of four or five bills that will be introduced in the house tomorrow. It already is apparent that congress will act expeditiously in the administration's anti-trust program in accordance with the wishes of President Wilson. Present indications are that the work of this session of congress will be limited to the anti-trust bills, a bill creating a system of rural credits, and the routine supply measures. It is the wish of the president and other party leaders that the session shall come to an end on or about June 1.

Work already has been begun by the appropriate house committee on the anti-trust bills. President Wilson has discussed the trust question with a number of callers at the White House. Senator Newlands of Nevada, who will handle the trust measures in the senate, conferred at length on the subject with the president. Last night the president had a long conference with Chairman Adamson and other members of the house interstate commerce committee. Mr. Adamson and his associates were upset by reports that, despite the action of the house, the president desired that all the anti-trust bills should be sent to the judiciary committee, of which Representative Clayton of Alabama is chairman. President Wilson made it clear to his visitors that he did not purpose to interfere with the work of congress in this regard.

The judiciary committee is willing to let the Adamson committee frame the trade commission bill, but Chairman Clayton thinks that all other features of the anti-trust program should be referred to his committee. There is likely to be a lively row over this question of jurisdiction, but the division of work is likely to be made as above indicated.

BRIEF WASHINGTON ITEMS

Several Matters of Interest to Indians Noted Down Here.

Washington, Jan. 22.—If the bill creating a vocational education commission becomes a law, it is understood here that John A. Lapp of Indianapolis, at the head of the Indiana reference bureau, will in all likelihood be made a member of the commission. Of the many applicants for the position he has the best indorsements. Governor Ralston and the Indiana senators are among those who favor his candidacy.

So far 4,422 banks, all chartered by the federal government, have made formal application for admission to the new federal reserve system. The national banks number at this time 7,500, so considerably more than one-half have made application. Practically all the national banks in Indiana have sent in their applications.

Edwin J. Gainer of Muncie, Ind., vice president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, will succeed to the presidency of that organization. William E. Kelly, the present president of the association, has been selected for the Brooklyn (N. Y.) postmastership, and will retire as the head of the letter carriers' association.

The chief of the division of military affairs in the war department, in its annual report, declares that the Indiana militiamen are poorly instructed in their armories.

SERIOUSLY WOUNDS PARENT

South Bend Young Man Shot Father Without Warning.

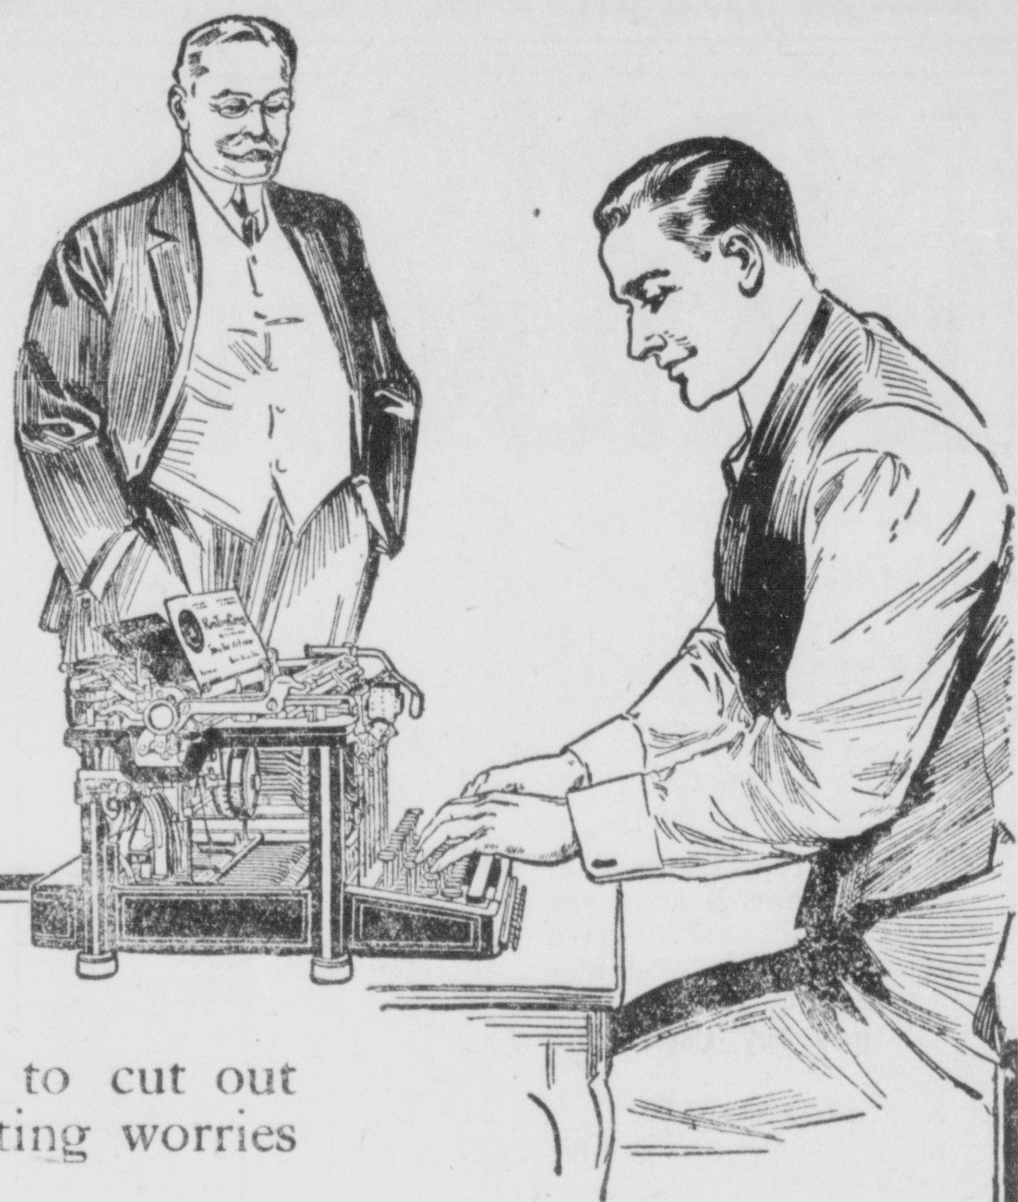

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 21.—John F. Meighan, sixty-five years old, a prominent civil engineer of South Bend, is in the hospital with a bullet wound above his left lung, but will recover. His son Edward, twenty-three years old, is in the insane ward of the county jail, charged with the shooting.

The shooting took place at the Meighan home. It is alleged that after shooting his father, Meighan entered the room of his elder brother, John Meighan, and fired a shot at him, narrowly missing his head. According to members of the family, he then walked into the street in his night clothing, where he was caught by his brother.

The father had just left his bedroom and entered the hallway when Edward came from another room and fired the shot. The father then walked back into his room and fell upon the bed. John Meighan was sleeping on a cot in the same room with his father.

Before he had time to rise, Edward, it is said, stepped to his side and fired at his head at close range. The bullet passed above his forehead, penetrated

CHAPTER XXV. A Last Appeal.

THAT was not a pleasant interview for Anthony. His surroundings were not such as to lend him assurance, and Garavel's grief at his daughter's disgrace was really distressing. Moreover, the unequivocal threat to annul the marriage filled him with alarm. His only consolation came from the fact that Gertrudis had made known the truth without the slightest hesitation. That showed that she was loyal at any rate. Kirk tried to assure his caller that he would have no trouble in proving his innocence, but Garavel seemed very little concerned with that phase of the affair and continued to bewail the dishonor that had fallen on his name.

Kirk's pride arose at this, and he exclaimed with some heat:

"My dear Mr. Garavel, if you are so blamed sure that I did all these things why did you come to see me?"

"It was to learn if she spoke the truth."

"Oh, we're married, right enough. And you'll have some difficulty in breaking it up before I get out."

"You expect, then, to prove your innocence easily?"

"I do."

"But I hear there are other serious charges."

"It is quite the same with them."

"But suppose you should not clear yourself of this—murder. Would you wish to drag down my daughter's name?"

"Of course not."

"I understand you have not spoken of this marriage. Perhaps you might consent to remain silent. If by any chance you should be convicted of guilt what satisfaction could you derive from injuring me and mine?"

"None at all, sir."

"I am rich," Garavel went on meaningly. "If you are acquitted I might perhaps arrange amply for your future—upon conditions."

"In other words, if I am to be hanged or shot or whatever it is they do to people down here you'll expect me to nary bearing that he fully realized the gravity of his situation.

To his unspeakable indignation, the officer who had discovered Cortlandt's body swore that he had seen the deceased pass him shortly before the time of his death, evidently taking a walk along the water's edge for relief from the heat, and that immediately afterward, perhaps a minute or so, the prisoner had also passed, going in the same direction! There was a street light close by, he said, and there could be no possible mistake as to Anthony's identity. A few moments later there had been a pistol shot, muffled, but unmistakable, and the policeman had hastened in the direction from which it came. The prisoner had appeared suddenly out of the darkness and hurried past. In the politest manner possible, the witness declared, he had questioned him regarding the shot, but Mr. Anthony had neither stopped nor answered. On the contrary, he had broken into a run. The officer had considered this strange behavior; but, being at all times most respectful toward Americans, he had made no effort to detain him. Passing on, he had found the body of the dead man. A revolver was beside it.

When this amazing testimony was translated to Kirk he was astounded; but his indignation was as nothing to that which swept over him when a servant in the Alfarez household swore to having actually witnessed the murder.

This fellow declared that he had been troubled greatly with a toothache. Toward morning of the night in question, too restless for sleep, he had gone out upon the sea wall. Even now his face was swollen, and he made a determined effort to show the court the particular tooth which had made him an unwilling beholder of the tragedy. Overcome by exhaustion, he had fallen asleep after a time, and he was awakened by the sounds of a quarrel. On opening his eyes he saw two Americans, one of whom was Senor Cortlandt, and the other Kirk Anthony. Being utterly ignorant of their language, he had no means of knowing what was said, nor did he consider the altercation serious until the large man shot the Senor Cortlandt. Then, being terror stricken at what he had beheld, he had run away, entirely forgetting his toothache, which was quite gone. That was all he knew of the matter. He recognized Anthony as the man who had done the shooting. He was troubled greatly with toothaches.

Wade was called next and told the story of that damning incident at the supper party, being corroborated by the others. Then there were several witnesses who swore to inconsequent things.

For once in his careless life the young man realized that he was face to face with something bigger and stronger than his own determination, and it daunted him. He began to see that he had underestimated these foreigners, for it seemed an easy matter to convict an innocent man in these Central American courts. Suddenly he decided to cable for Darwin K. Anthony—the one man who was strong enough to save him.

When it came time for him to speak, he told a straight story about his own actions on that night, and he was corroborated by Allan; but he knew that these words had little weight against that other testimony. Of course, he was remanded for trial.

Anson, the lawyer, gave him a ray of encouragement as he left.

"Don't go too much on this hearing," he said. "I think we'll pull you out all right."

"You think! I dare say Ramon Alfarez can get a dozen men to perjure themselves as easily as he got those two."

"Exactly. But I have a little coup that I intend to spring at the right moment."

"For heaven's sake, tell me what it is!"

"I'm sorry, but I can't just yet. In the first place, one must handle these people exactly right or they explode."

"But give me an idea at least. I'm really interested in the outcome of this case, you know."

Anson smiled. "Of course you are, and I'll tell you as soon as I can, but not now."

"These Spiggroties would enjoy standing me up against a wall with my head in a rag. They'd make it a holiday and ring all the bells in town."

"I can't assure you that it isn't serious," Anson acknowledged gravely, "for it is. Any time an American goes to court in this country it is serious. But that doesn't mean that we'll lose."

"You may be a good lawyer," said Kirk ruefully, "but you're a blamed poor comforter. I—I wish my dad was here. He'd fix it. He wouldn't let 'em convict me. He's great, my dad is. He can swear like the devil. I like him better than any man I've ever met, Anson."

He wrote a lengthy cablegram, which the lawyer, with a peculiar smile, agreed to dispatch at once. He spent a sleepless night. In the morning a message came signed by Copley—Kirk's heart leaped at the familiar name—saying that Darwin K. Anthony had left Albany for the west on Sunday night and could not be located for a few days.

"He was never gone when I needed money," the son mused. "He'll be worried when he hears about this, and he has enough to worry him as it is. I'm mighty sorry, but I simply must have him."

Anson brought in the day's papers, which alluded, as usual, to Cortlandt's death as a murder, and printed their customary sensational stories, even to a rehearsal of all that had occurred at the stag supper. This in particular made Kirk writhe, knowing as he did that it would reach the eyes of his newly made wife. He also wondered vaguely how Edith Cortlandt was bearing up under all this notoriety. The lawyer brought the further news that Allan was in captivity as an accessory to the crime and that henceforth Kirk need expect but few visitors. Somebody, probably Ramon Alfarez, had induced the officials to treat their prisoner with special severity.

During the days which followed, Kirk suffered more than he chose to confess even to his attorney. In the first place, it was hard to be denied all knowledge of what was going on—Anson would tell him little, except that he was working every day—and then, too, the long hours of solitude gnawed at his self control. Runnels managed to see him once or twice, reporting that, so far as he could learn, Chiquita had disappeared. He took a message from Kirk to her, but brought back word that he could not deliver it.

It was on Sunday, a week after his arrest, that Edith Cortlandt came to Kirk. He was surprised to see the ravages that this short time had made in her, for she was pale and drawn and weary looking, as if from sleeplessness. Strange to say, these marks of suffering did not detract from her appearance, but rather enhanced her poise and distinction.

"I'm awfully glad to see you, Mrs. Cortlandt," he said as she extended her hand. "But do you think it was wise for you to come?"

She shrugged. "People can say no more than they have already said. My name is on every tongue, and a little more gossip can make matters no worse. I had to come. I just couldn't stay away. I wonder if you can realize what I have been through."

"It must have been terrible," he said gently.

"Yes, I have paid. It seems to me that I have paid for everything I ever did. Those newspaper stories nearly killed me, but it wasn't that so much as the thought that you were suffering for my acts."

"I'm very sorry. You never thought for a moment that I did what they claim?"

"No, no! It has all been a mistake from the first. I was sure of that."

"You heard what those two men testified?"

"Bah! That is Ramon Alfarez. But he can do nothing. You will forgive your scruples angered me, I honor you for them now."

"Your husband's death can make no difference with us, Mrs. Cortlandt," he said gravely.

"We have talked openly before, and there is no need to do otherwise now. You mean by that that you don't care for me, but I know better. I believe there is a love so strong that it must find an answer. Although you may not care for me now as you care for—some one else—I know that I can make you forget her and put me in her place. I can help you, oh, so much!"

"Wait!" he said harshly. "You force me to break my word. I don't want to tell you this, but—I am married."

"You—never told me that! It was some mad college prank, I suppose."

"No, no. I married Gertrudis Garavel that night at the Tivoli."

"Oh, that can't be. That was the night of the dance. Why didn't you tell me? Why isn't she here? Why does she leave you alone? No, no! You hardly know each other. Why, she's not old enough to know her own mind!"

"But I know my mind, and I love her."

Her white hands strained at each other as she steadied her shaking voice. "Love!" she cried. "You don't know what love means, nor does she. She can't know, or she'd be here. She'd have this prison torn block from block."

"You don't know what you're saying. You're hysterical, Mrs. Cortlandt. I love Gertrudis so deeply that there's no room in me for anything else and never will be. Heaven only knows what they have made her believe about me, but I don't care. I'll upset this little plot of Alfarez, and when she learns the truth she will come back again."

"This little plot!" Edith cried in distraction. "And I suppose you wish me to give you back to her? But I won't help her. I'm not that sort. I'm a selfish woman. I've always been selfish because I've never had anybody to work for. But I have it in me to be generous."

"I'm sorry," he said. "You have suffered. I know. Don't trouble any more about me—please."

"Oh, I'd rather face the gallows as you face it than what is before me, and I'm not sure I could help you, after all. You are in Latin America now, remember, and your enemies are strong."

"I am Darwin K. Anthony's son," he protested. "He won't allow it."

"Bah! He is an American, and these are Spanish people. You have seen how they like us, and you have seen what Alfarez can do. He's rich, and he'll perjure more witnesses; he'll manipulate the court with his money. Yes, and I'd rather he succeeded than see you—no, no! What am I saying? Let me go; let me get away from here!" She broke down and went sobbing out into the corridor.

On the same afternoon Mr. Clifford, accompanied by Anson, the lawyer, took the 3:20 train for Colon. As soon as he arrived he called up Colonel Jolson to request that the commissioner's motorcar should, without fail, await him at 10 o'clock sharp on the next morning, with an open track ahead of it. Strangely enough, the colonel agreed very readily.

One for what I said that night at the hotel, won't you? I didn't really mean to injure you, Kirk, but I was half hysterical. I had suffered so these last few months that I was ready to do anything. I never dreamed there was a way out of my misery, a way so close at hand. But somehow, even be-

PECULIAR AFTER EFFECTS OF GRIP THIS YEAR

Leaves Kidneys In Weakened Condition.

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are often very distressing, and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney troubles. Druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root, on receipt of ten cents, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince anyone who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50 cents and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper. J30d intersection of Maple and Oak streets. The communication was referred to the board of safety.

TWO ASSESSMENT ROLLS APPROVED

Hodapp reported that a shade tree in front of W. L. Johnson's property on Poplar street was in bad condition and upon his motion the chairman of the board of safety was instructed to confer with Mr. Johnson relative to its removal.

A communication signed by about fifty citizens was read and recommended that the contract for the removal of garbage be awarded to Peter Largent, who held the contract several years ago.

Andrews presented a request signed by the officers of the Seymour Battalion who asked permission to use the city park July 4th for a military celebration and sham battle. Upon motion of Andrews the request was granted provided the park had not been given to any other party by the former council, and that after the celebration it would be restored to its present condition.

Andrews moved that the assessment for the improvement of North Walnut street along the library property be paid by the city but that the amount due from the contractors for marginal be first deducted. The motion was carried by unanimous vote. The question of paying for this work was presented to the former council and it was voted that the library board should settle the same. The library board refused to make the payment from its fund.

Upon motion of Ley the board of safety was instructed to inquire into the feasibility of stationing a flagman at the Pennsylvania Railroad crossing at Blish's Mill. It was stated that the crossing on Tipton street was dangerous in that the rumbling of the wagons would drown out the sound of the signal bell.

Ahlbrand mentioned that the ash hauler had complained that considerable trouble was experienced in having ashes and other debris thrown together in the same barrel or container.

Steinwedel, chairman of the safety board, moved that seventy-five feet of hose be purchased for use in scrubbing the jail. He said that the jail was not in a sanitary condition as the floor was not flushed as often as it should be. His motion was carried.

Steinwedel also reported that Chief Everhart, of the fire department, recommended that the tree at the corner of Fourth street and Indianapolis avenue be removed as it interfered with the use of the fire hydrant there. It was stated that the owner of the property, L. W. Jones, had consented to have the tree removed. The street commissioner was instructed to cut the tree down and haul it away.

Upon motion of Ahlbrand the following bills were allowed:

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

Mrs. W. P. Rooney received a telegram today stating that her sister, Mrs. Frank Kelley, is critically ill at her home at Seattle, Washington. Mrs. Kelley visited her sister here several weeks ago.

Dr. L. Ruddick left Thursday afternoon for Nickerson, Kansas. He went in response to a message concerning his sister, Mrs. Mary Wheeler, who is in a serious condition. She is eighty years old. A few days ago she fell and broke her hip and is suffering severely.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. John Steinkamp will be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock from her late residence on High street and will be private. Friends wishing to view the remains may do so this evening from 7 to 9 and on Saturday morning from 9 to 10 o'clock.

Although the city council has had two regular meetings and one special session there has not been one negative vote recorded by the clerk. If the present spirit of harmony prevails during the coming four years the members will have no difficulty in determining the various questions that will come before them.

It is reported that about one thousand pounds of fish were gilled in Driftwood between Edinburg and Lowell a few days ago and that the fishermen made haste in getting away after disposing of many of the fish at Edinburg and Columbus. Some of the fish were sold at a very low price just before the fishermen departed for parts unknown.

A real estate deal has been consummated between Knoles D. Mann and W. D. Barnes whereby the former secured possession of the farm, one and one-half miles east of the city, owned by the latter. Mr. Barnes becomes the owner of the Mann garage building on East Third street. Harold Stewart has purchased the garage business and equipment from Mr. Mann and has obtained a five-year lease on the building. Mr. Stewart takes charge of the business Monday. The deals were made by the C. E. T. Dobbins Co., general brokers.

W. T. Young, who became a member of the Indianapolis council the first of the year, was a visitor at the council meeting last night. He followed the proceedings closely and at the close of the meeting congratulated the members upon the manner in which they transacted the business of the city. Mr. Young did not come to Seymour especially to attend the meeting but was here on business and took advantage of the opportunity to visit the session. He comes to Seymour frequently in the interest of the Standard Oil Company.
